

Mapping New England

High Concentrations of Brazilians in Southern New England

According to the U.S. Census, 23.2 percent of the more than 200,000 Brazilians living in the United States in 2000 made their home in New England. In Massachusetts, Brazilians have settled primarily in Boston, Framingham, and Somerville. There is also a high concentration in Danbury, Connecticut.

